Quarterly Conference Held Last Sunday

Quarterly Conference of the Taylor Stake of Zion convened Saturday and Sunday in Raymond, with Pres T. Geo. Wood in charge, the Sunday School and Primary work taking the spotlight, with delegates of these organizations in the persons of Elder Don B. Colton of the Sunday School Board and Mesdames Lambert and Hardy of the Primary Boards in attendance.

The business session of the Conference was held Sunday morning when the Stake and Church officials were presented and sustained. Several advancements and some changes in Quorums and their officers were also announced as follows:

James Weaver and Max Heggie for advancement to Elders and L. LeRoy Anderson, Wm. Zemp, Don C. Rodeback, George Rasmussen and S. B. Smith for advancement to High Priests. The Presidency of the 6th Elders Quorum was re-organized with John L. Evans, President, Bruce Heggie and Isaac Holt as Counsellors and Ellys Piepgrass as Secretary. The 5th Elders Quorum was also re-organized with Earl Holman, President, Eldred Hudson and Bernard Gull Counsellors and Frank Miller Secretary.

Brief reports on the recent General Conference were given by the following: Geo. Gourney A. E. Foote, Mr. and Mrs. Christian Jensen and Pres. Heber F. Allen, the latter reporting $115,000 worth of food and merchandise stored in regional storehouses in Stakes surrounding Salt Lake City, provided by donation and prepared by unemployed Church members. The Church was desirous of every quorum having a project in the Church Security program. The authorities wanted each bishop to have a Gospel message in every Sacrament meeting. Tithing last year was the highest in the history of the Church but because of increased demands, building throughout the Church would have to be curtailed and no new buildings would be undertaken unless their necessity was proven to the Presiding Bishopric.

Stake President T. Geo. Wood reported the condition of the Stake and praised the people for their loyalty and obedience to requirements, which had placed the Stake 6th in the Church in attendance at Sacrament meeting and 50 p.c. of our population on the Tithing roll. Fast offerings were not so good, and we would all be benefitted if we made a better showing in this respect.

Elder Colton and Mesdames Hardy and Lambert spoke briefly and bore their testimonies.

A one hour's general assembly was held at 2 p.m., with Stake Superintendent of Sunday Schools Frank R. Taylor in charge. At this meeting the three visitors from Church headquarters spoke on phases of the theme "Co-operation between parents teachers and children and the creating of proper attitudes, a great need today." "Learn to know Your Children" was Mrs. Hardy's topic. Mrs. Lambert spoke on "We want Moral and Spiritual Training for Our Children that they may stand firm under the Trials of Life," and Elder Colton related several personal experiences in the value of personal experiences and other well told happenings in forming attitudes in the child's mind.

The evening session was directed by Paul L. Dahl, Stake Superintendent of the M. I. A. and featured a massed chorus of 200 singers, directed by

200 ACRES OF FIELD

PEAS CONTRACTED

The Grimm Alfalfa Seed Growers' of Brooks, Alta., has contracted about 200 acres of peas in the Raymond district this season, and the seed was distributed from the local C.P.R. station on Monday. Growers maintain that with a favorable season at all, their field peas will show a good profit, and it is also claimed that they make a very good soil building crop.

Amongst those raising peas this year are Louis Brandley, D. E. Wilde, Roht. Salmon, Donny Nilsson and a number of others whom we cannot name. There is no doubt but that the progress of this new crop will be watched with interest in this district.

KELLY NEMETH MAKES

FINE RECORD

Kelly J. Nemeth, young Raymond student has recently returned from the Coyne Electric school in Chicago where he made a very enviable record in his work and the following two paragraphs from a letter written us by the school shows this:

"The writer feels that this is worthy of special mention, in view of the record of accomplishment of this student while at our school.

"The rigid requirements of our institution make a record such as he has established, a distinct achievement. We are confident that the specialized knowledge he has acquired while with us, should prove beneficial to your community."

The Coyne school has been operating for thirty-nine years and is recognized by educators and industrialists all over for the fine type of students it graduates. We heartily congratulate Kelly on obtaining such a fine record from the school and wish him every success in his work in the electrical engineering field.

The enjoyment of the Conference was greatly enhanced to everyone this time because of the installation of a couple of amplifiers by Westlyng and Thomas of Cardston. A couple of the latest type "mikes" were also on the pulpit.

C. Stone in the following numbers: "Crossing the Bar," "Pilgrim's Chorus," Sextette from Lucia, "On Great Lone Hills," "Lullaby." A male chorus sang "Dedication," and the ladies of the chorus sang "Beautiful Dreamer." Paul Dahl announced that the slogan of this group was "On to Salt Lake" as the Canadian Stakes had been asked to furnish the singing for the June Convention of 1939 and if this group could continue to progress an effort would certainly be made to take them to the Convention.

Elder Don B. Colton was the speaker at this meeting speaking on "Who Shall Ascend unto the Hill of the Lord." He urged all, and especially the young people to live true to the ideals of the Church so they might ascend unto the hill of the Lord.

The Stake Choir, directed by Wm. C. Stone was present at all the meetings and furnished a lovely program of anthems to Conference attendants, which in point of attendance equalled, if not surpassed any previous Conference held.

Amplifiers, installed for the Conference assisted those present in hearing easily all that went on during the sessions.

To Fence Pool Next Monday

WANTED—Every interested and able-bodied man in Raymond at the Swimming Pool on Monday afternoon to assist in the fencing and planting of the Pool grounds, for the summer season. It will not be many days before your boys and girls will be wanting a swim, and the Rotary Club and Town Council are anxious that all of this work be done before the swimming season commences.

Monday is Arbor Day, and while not a statutory holiday, is a day set apart for this type of work, and because the season is getting late, and because shrubs do not do very well if moved too late in the spring, those in direct charge are very desirous of getting the work all done Monday afternoon. It would also be appreciated if those who have a shrub, plant or tree to spare from their grounds would phone either O. H. Snow at the Municipal Office, or Warren L. Jones at the Town Office, informing them of what you have and when it may be called for.

Chairmen of Committees in charge of the work are:

Steel and Concrete — Lowell B. Duncombe.

Carpentering—Thos. K. Roberts.

Planting and Plants — O. H. Snow.

Materials—Warren L. Jones.

There will be work for everyone on Monday, either digging post holes, hammering nails, or helping with the planting of the trees and shrubs. Support those who are in charge of this work by arranging to be present and help. The Pool has come thru the winter in fine shape, is a credit to the Town, and if the plans for fencing and beautifying the grounds materialize it will be a beauty spot of which every citizen of Raymond may well be proud.

NEWS NOTES

K. L. Lee and John Stott of Cardston were in Raymond last Tuesday.

Theodore Ehler and son were busy Monday forenoon plastering the hall in the Security block where the stairs were taken out.

Sunday night is Mutual Conjoint meeting in both Raymond wards and interesting and instructive programs have been prepared by the Mutual officials.

Herman Linder, Clarke Lund and George Macdonald, Canadian cowboys now in Australia, were all listed amongst the prize winners in the events held 'down under' last week.

Mrs. Mary Willis of Westonsville, Cal., and Mrs. Lily Dean of Payson, Utah, daughters of Mrs. Selman, Sr., are visiting friends and relatives in the district for a time.

Bishop Walker informs us that his son Fay, who has been in the German mission for the past seven or eight months is on his way home, having been released due to illness. This is a keen disappointment to Fay as well as the Bishop and the Walker family, and with them we hope that Fay's return to his native land will assist him to recovery, and that speedily.

Y Jokers Defeat Sharp Shooters Here

After arranging for a sudden death game to settle the Intermediate championship of Alberta, and slated for the Raymond Opera House last Saturday evening, the plans were changed to home and home games, but the Lethbridge boys decided to play the game on the Raymond floor anyway after making arrangements for it, and they took the number of the Calgary team by a score of 33-26.

Only a small gallery of fans was on hand to watch the game, which was decidedly clean only two persons being called on the Lethbridge Jokers, while the Sharp Shooters of Calgary had 7 personals and a technical which led up on them. Max Heggie and Ellys Piepgrass handled the game to the satisfaction of both players and fans.

The Calgary boys started well and at half time led the scoring column by a count of 16-20, but the Jokers came back strong in the second half to win the game 33-26. High scorers for Lethbridge were G. Anderson and C. Campbell with 9 apiece, and incidentally to lead all other snipers. Calgary's high men were Murray and Hatcher with 6 points apiece.

Following is the lineup and score:

Calgary—Murray, 6; Dick; A. Dick, 4; Hatcher, 6; Stark 4; Graves, 4; Olsen, 2. Total 26.

Lethbridge — Anderson, 9; Hunt, 3; C. Campbell, 9; J. Campbell; Sloan, 8; Jackson; M. Sherwood, 4; F. Sherwood. Total 33.

NEWS NOTES

A large attendance was reported at the Meeks sale Monday afternoon, everything being disposed of at a fair price.

Linden Larson is home from the Lethbridge Hospital and is recovering after his appendicitis operation.

David Wood returned home Sunday after completing his year's work at the University of Alberta.

Make it a point to be at the Swimming Pool Monday afternoon to assist in the fencing and beautification program set for that day. Your boys and girls need it.

The Raymond 1st Ward held a very successful Budget Dance in the Opera House Saturday night last. A nice sum, above the budget tickets was realized from the dance.

Basketball is over, but baseball is in the door yard. Wonder if we could give the Athletic Association the same splendid support in Baseball that they received during the Basketball and Boxing season. What say Mr. John Phan?

At the 2nd Ward Party last Friday a good crowd was present and greatly enjoyed the evening of drama and dancing. "Allie, the Cobbler," the prize winning drama from Stirling in the High School Drama Festival was presented, and also a one-act show from Raymond 2nd Ward "In the Time of Good Sports." Both presentations were greatly enjoyed and the evening was concluded with dancing.

Winning three straight from Ottawa, Glebe Grads, Wally Mayers and his Western Basketball sharks are homeward bound with the coveted silverware. The first two games were won by Vancouver by a 35-33 and 34-32 score, and the third one 47-27. Raymond was not the only team that lost by the proverbial "skin of their teeth." Congratulations to the Westerns on their victory.

Changes and new businesses are the order of the day in town this week. The Togo Cafe, operated for many years by H. "Shorty" O'Shiro, has closed, and a new Cafe to be known as the "York" and operated by Wong Joe and G. W. Chark, of Edmonton will open for business as soon as the alterations can be made and the new fixtures and improvements put in place. The new proprietors have had years of experiences and plan on conducting an up-to-the-minute cafe.

The Jones sisters, Bernice and Ina have rented the old Holt Meat Market block, and carpenters have just finished remodeling the interior to house a Millinery and Ladies' Wear store.

The girls have been planning on this venture for a long time, and are expecting to open to the public the first of the week. Latest styles in millinery, dresses, lingerie, etc., will be featured.

We certainly wish both these businesses the very best of luck and bespeak a share of local patronage for them.

JOHN PALM LAID TO REST

Funeral services over the remains of John Palm, who died suddenly at his home last week, were held in the 2nd Ward with Bishop James H. Walker in charge. A nice crowd was present to pay their respects to the deceased. The choir with Joseph McLean conducting furnished the singing and a vocal duet was rendered by Mesdames L. D. King and J. H. Walker. Speakers at the service were Rev. Thorpe of Magrath, C. R. Wing and C. E. Alfred, all of whom offered words of comfort and consolation to the bereaved family.

Pall bearers were D. G. Selman, D. A. Bennett, V. Piepgrass, L. McPhee, R. J. Fansett and D. Lund and burial took place in the local cemetery with Christensen Bros. in charge.

The sympathy of the community is extended to the bereaved wife and daughters in their sorrow.

Joe Hancock recently purchased a new Cockshutt rubber-tired tractor. His mother, Mrs. Zilpha Z. Hancock, aged 86, was interested in the machine, and Joe took her out to the farm, and she rode around the field, quite elated with the modern day methods, and then contrasted them with the days of the ox-teams in Utah.

Sugar City Council are Opposed to Mooted Production Tax

The Sugar City Municipal Council met in a special meeting Tuesday to consider the road program and the machinery program for the coming summer. As there was a division of opinion with respect to obtaining a new caterpillar no action was taken at the meeting.

The following resolution was passed and copies are being sent to the Provincial Government:

"After duly considering the 'Production Tax Act', the Council of Sugar City M. D. no. 37 passed the following Resolution moved by Coun. Nelson:—

Be it Resolved that the Council of Sugar City M. D. no. 37 go on record as being unalterably opposed to the Production Tax as the thrifty farmer, with no better lands, will pay the tax for the careless farmer who because of neglect, fails to produce."

WE NEED TOLERANCE

Ye Editor had the pleasure last week of an hour's informal chat with the Provincial Treasurer, which was very much enjoyed and very helpful to a better understanding of some of the Provincial problems that face the Government today. Having known the Minister almost as long as memory reaches back, it was easy to dispense with all formalities and talk, just talk.

We have decided since our conversation that a greater degree of tolerance in matters political on all sides would be a good thing for all of us. This goes for those in power, as well as for those on the outside who are criticizing and finding fault. There is no question but that each era of progress in our civilization and our onward march brings its own problems, and the present Social Credit Government is facing problems, and striving to find a solution for them that no Government in Alberta has hitherto faced to quite the same extent.

We will all have to admit that it is a far cry from the days of 25 years ago, when we had no relief no sanitariums, no pensions for blind or old age and no roads, except a line between two fences, to the present day when the demands of an ever increasing army of dependents are sounding continually in the ears of Governments, municipal, provincial and federal, making the life of public officials anything but pleasant and wholesome. That Governments have fallen short of meeting these demands is a fact we must expect. That mistakes will be made, must be looked for. Where tolerance is needed is for us to be open-minded enough to give credit where it is due; to withhold caustic criticism until we are in possession of the facts; and when we condemn, be sure that our condemnation is not a case of the pot calling the kettle black.

We asked the Minister about a number of things, amongst them the 7 p.c. production tax, and voiced it as our opinion that it was unworkable, because of the maze of details in costs, charges, etc., against some crops that do not enter into the question with respect to other crops. The Minister stated that none realized better than the Government that it was something different, and that it was hoped that it would bring a storm of protest, and then from the information contained in these protests, the Government would be able to decide whether or not the thing was feasible.

The tax had been suggested in an effort to find a way to put the payment of taxes on those best able to pay, and he felt that those who had were the ones who should pay. If the idea of a production tax was not right, then some other scheme would be studied, as the Government felt that a blanket tax on land was unfair, in that taxes accumulated in good years as well as bad, while it was hoped a production tax, or some other kind, would provide a surplus in good years to care for the poor ones. Logical, if workable, isn't it?

And so we talked. We have been criticized by our neighbors both ways. By staunch Government supporters because we ever dared to attack what had been or was being done, and by Government opponents because we have not always been on the attacking line. We have tried to be fair, and hope to continue in the same path. We feel that as Canadians we owe allegiance to the Party that the majority have put in power. We do not interpret this to be blind and unquestioning following after their lead. Criticism still has its place even amongst friends. But as long as the Social Credit Government is in power, we owe it allegiance and a good degree of support.

However, we repeat what we have said before. Governments will come and go, but Alberta will outlast them all. So as long as the interests of our Province are the main concern of the Party in power, and we feel that they always will be, then there is a Providence watching over all of us, that ultimately will over rule every action for the benefit and good of Albertans.

Let us be critical, yes. But with our criticism let us be tolerant. Everyone gets their toes trod on, and meets with disappointment in their cherished plans and dreams; but known unto God alone are the ends of our paths and the secrets of our brother's heart and intents. We cannot know them in advance.

Our Edmonton Letter

(By T. B. Windross)

Edmonton, April 25—The Social Credit board got all set last week for a heavy year's program of public enlightenment.

Four of the five members of the board assigned themselves definite titles and definite duties, unlike last year's system by which the "experts" brought from London were to do the supervising. Last year's program cost $50,000, whereas this year's is to cost $100,000 to the provincial treasury.

G. L. MacLachlan, M.L.A., for Coronation and chairman of the Social Credit board, now gets the title "director of legislation and technical work." He is expected to keep in "close contact" with L.D. Byrne, the "Social Credit expert," but the board's statement did not say just what Mr. Byrne is going to be doing from now on.

W. E. Hayes, M.L.A., for Stony Plain, is to be "director of information." A druggist by profession, he now takes over the job of supervising the work of two professional writers whom the board hired last year as directors of "circulation" and of "information," both of which meant preparation and distribution of pamphlets and Social Credit propaganda for which free publication was sought in newspapers.

A. J. Hooke, M.L.A. for Red Deer, and Floyd M. Baker, M.L.A., for Clover Bar, both were given the title "director of public relations." Dr. J. L. McPherson, M.L.A. for Vegreville, didn't get any new title except "member of board meetings." But all five members of the board are to get $8 a day each, in addition to their $2,000 sessional indemnities, for every day in which they construe themselves to be working in the service of the board. And the estimates set aside for them will allow them nearly 300 days' pay each, during the present fiscal year. The Social Credit board's whole program is regarded as being one of propaganda rather than of dividends.

All of this lay behind the comment made by Hon. T. A. Crerar, Federal Minister of Mines and Natural Resources, the other day in reference to "this weird thing in Alberta that they call Social Credit." He remarked of it: "When any sort of individual who has any sort of a capacity for a flow of words can get people to listen to any sort of claptrap he wants to put up, then that's a danger signal to the democratic system. Another is the increased conception that the government exists to confer favors on people. If we should get into another world war, it will probably be because the individual citizen in the various countries of the world forgot his responsibilities and allowed himself to be swayed by orators and fakers."

Sir Edward Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, also seemed to have the expensive Social Credit propaganda campaign in mind when he said in a speech last week that he was "not quite certain about the road to power in the Social Credit state, but I am inclined to believe that it depends upon skill in writing books which no one understands."

And one of the few occasions upon which any bank official in Canada has criticized the Social Credit political scheme publicly was marked a few days ago, when C. A. Rheame, an officer of the Bank of Montreal addressed an organization of Montreal business men on the subject of "Social Credit and Major Douglas." The speech won for Mr.

Rheame a medal as a debater. He described social credit as a scheme which Major C. H. Douglas "guaranteed to abolish poverty, taxation and war, and to ensure relief from burdensome labor," and continued:

"Major Douglas' mind evidently functions according to the advice of a famous cynic who said: 'If you would make your doctrine immortal, make it incomprehensible, for then no one can prove that it is wrong.' The major paints an inspired word picture of the new world drawing 'national dividends,' but nowhere in his books does he indicate how this modern miracle is to be accomplished practically. When the time comes he will explain the methods."

"All of which is very dramatic and mysterious, and not a little insulting to one's intelligence. In plain English, rational people are asked to support a fantastic economic theory without the least intimation as to how it can be translated into a practical policy."

"But that isn't all. He advances the new and startling theory that debt is an illusion to be corrected by peculiar accounting methods, and that interest charges are an imposition, and that the creation of purchasing power is a mere currency-manufacturing process. A man who has saved money and who has loaned it to someone is some sort of a criminal. And the modern banking system, designed to mobilize and invest such savings, is a public menace, a blood sucking parasite."

"The major says he would have the state support the individual by means of a national dividend instead of the individual supporting the state through taxation. Labor and production are to be entirely optional."

"His accusations and his criticisms are thrown at everyone. He ignores the fact that the sole driving power of our intricate social machine is production, the velocity of which determines our standards of living. Can we seriously imagine a state of society where the citizens calmly sit down in idleness, exchanging dividend tickets with each other? The truth, of course, is that the welfare of mankind depends on one thing only, and that one thing is production."

"Social Credit leaders have created a popular political campaign asset out of such high-sounding and inspiring words and phrases as 'Big Shots,' 'money power,' 'tyranny of high finance.' You hear of their appeals to 'monetize the credit of Alberta,' and to 'monetize our inexhaustible natural resources.' Everything is to be monetized for the benefit of the downtrodden citizens."

"All of this is very dramatic. But let us go into this seriously. To monetize is to form into coin, meaning to borrow money against an asset or to raise money through the sale of that asset. Now, we all know that our public indebtedness has accomplished that purpose already. The fact that Alberta is now unable to meet the interest charges on that debt would seem to indicate that they have actually monetized it far beyond the safety limit."

"Social Crediters find themselves unable to reply to the rebuttal."

"Now, the national dividend! The Social Crediters propose in some way yet to be explained, to pay each bona fide citizen $25 a month out of a fund created God knows how. But not, we are told, through the direct and simple medium of taxation. Most of the rank and file of Social Crediters believe that the dividend, in some mysterious way, would be paid out of natural resources. That, of course, is absurd: production arising out of developing our natural resources belongs to the worker alone; our farmers should not produce wheat to be handed to the government for free distribution. The method employed by the government to share the farmers' interest in production is through taxation. 'So we come to the crucial point in the whole Social Credit claim. How can a government pay out millions of dollars each month in dividends to its citizens, without raising the money by taxation, so as to redeem its

INSTALMENT TWENTY-ONE

Monty Wallace has just arrived in California, having broken the East-West cross country airplane record. Natalie Wade, mis taken by him for a newspaper reporter, writes the exclusive account of Monty's arrival, and succeeds in securing a trial job with a paper in exchange for the story. Natalie becomes attached to Monty.

Although she discovers Monty's love for her is not sincere, Natalie admits that she loves him. She is assigned by her paper to report Monty's activities for publication. Jimmy Hale, the newspaper's photographer, becomes Natalie's co-worker.

Natalie interviews Jabe Marion, a wealthy airplane builder, who decides to build a record-breaking 'round the world plane for Monty. Marion's daughter, Sunny, exquisitely beautiful, is attracted to Monty. She invites Natalie to dine with her, when they meet the aviator unexpectedly.

Natalie discovers that Sunny is jealous of her friendship with Monty, and that she is trying to prevent them from being alone. After driving to a mountain resort with Sunny and Jimmy, Monty again declares his love for Natalie.

Sunny attempts to drive Natalie from Monty's attention by climbing a high wall. She almost loses her balance and is pulled back by Monty. Jimmy later asks Natalie to consider his love for her if she refuses Monty.

Natalie induces Monty to set out with her in an airplane search for two missing aviators. At dusk Monty lands the plane in the open country, where he and Natalie must spend the night.

Resuming the search in the borecho!" Sunny acceded with alacrity that seemed almost genuine.

"Of course!" she agreed, with gusto. "And what better place for a welcome party to Monty Wallace than Nat's apartment."

Natalie sensed a thrust in these apparently innocent words. But not betraying that she, too, knew Sunny's position with Monty she took up the challenge.

"You two run along," replied Natalie. "I'll meet you after I get the rest of this story and check on Monty's arrival."

Jimmy and Sunny departed, while Natalie resumed her place beside the telephone. The bell jangled with an insistent clang.

"Yes," answered Natalie. "Oh, it's you, Mack. Yes—I'm here at the airport. No news after the last flash—what? You have a bulletin from the News Bureau? What is it—quick!"

From his desk in the City Room, Mack Hanlon scanned the strand of yellow tape trailing through his fingers. In its brief message was spelled the news they had been waiting for these long, long, days and nights. He read:

"Mont Wallace proceeding down coast, reports all is well. Air escort picks up plane near Portland. Wallace scheduled to land 7:45 A. M. Good flying weather ahead."

Mack detected a stifled cry of relief from the receiver near his ear.

"Thanks, Mack," came Natalie's grateful voice, over the wire. "Shall I write a follow-up for the early edition?"

"We'll handle that," laughed the genial editor. "You start catching up on some sleep or you won't be able to see your hero even if he lands in broad daylight!"

It took Natalie no time to be home. Somehow it seemed ages the sounding of the door-buzzer. Hastily drawing on her robe, Natalie admitted Jimmy and Sunny.

"Time to get out to the airport," warned Jimmy.

"Toot-toot, all aboard!" chimed in Sunny, merrily.

"I'll slip into something in a jiffy—sit down while I wake up under a shower," said Natalie, glancing at the clock.

"I'll make some coffee" volunteered Sunny, catching Jimmy by the arm. "Come on you!"

Soon Natalie again appeared, this time clad in a simple sports outfit. Her face shone radiantly only to be outdone by the brightness of her eyes. This was her day of days. The aroma of steaming coffee drew her to the kitchen.

"That coffee smells too good—you can't keep me away by hiding it out here," she said, but scarcely had she spoken than her eyes fastened on the scene before her. Sunny and Jimmy were clasped in each other's arms. Their lips had met. They stood in a world of their own. Only after a moment did Jimmy become aware of Natalie's presence. His start brought Sunny back to reality.

"Hello, Nat," said Jimmy. Then turning to Sunny with a meaning glance, "I guess we might as well tell her."

"Why not," agreed Sunny.

"What better time than now?"

"Sunny and I are to be married," was Jimmy's simple statement.

Gulping their coffee, the three ran out to the car and speeded toward the landing field. The hour was still early. The headlights cast billows of light against the rising morning mist. A faint glow in the East gave promise of a clear day, the fingers of the sun reaching halfway above the horizon.

Natalie was flying across the little space between morning, they finally locate the fliers. Natalie wires the story to her paper. That night at dinner, Marion announces a non-stop 'round the world flight, with Monty piloting the new plane, 'Sunny Marion.'

Monty's plan is to have ten re-fuelling stations along the route, where pilots are to go aloft to refuel his plane. Monty flies with Natalie to New York, where he will begin the flight eastward. They are followed by Jimmy and Sunny.

The day before the flight, Monty once more declares his love to Natalie.

Quickly in the staccato manner of the veteran reporter, Natalie poured out the story of Monty's victory over the elements. It was his triumph—her's. And even as the last words of her story sung over the wire, Jimmy Hale and Sunny came in.

Sunny was her old self again. Composed, her most charming manner seeking to conceal the defeat that Natalie knew must be hers. Jimmy was jubilant.

"Get out the Welcome Mat," Jimmy shouted gleefully. "This calls for a party. And when the Hale tribe says 'party,' it means a real blow-out—a whoopjam-since her eyes had glimpsed these familiar things before. As she opened the door, a shout greeted her, Jimmy and Sunny true to their promise, had already begun preparations for the 'welcome party.'

"Hi, Nat," greeted Jimmy, poking his head from the kitchen.

Sunny's face wore a smile; only her eyes remained coldly serious.

"Hada't we better give this hardworking newspaper woman a chance to get a much-needed beauty nap?"

Jimmy ignored Sunny's obvious barb.

"Of course," exclaimed Jimmy. "Let's go before the neighbors suspect the celebration has started already!"

Jimmy and Sunny left Natalie again alone with her thoughts—her hopes. But the demands of sleep were stronger than even her anticipation of the morning's events. She slept soundly. Before she knew it, her brief interval of rest was broken by

If we were all as perfect as we expect our neighbor to be, what would we do with all the time that we now use to criticize and find fault. The Master certainly knew human nature when he said "Let him who is without sin cast the first stone."

The huge airport hangar just this side of Lethbridge presents a very imposing picture now with the steel work completed and the roof being put on. The huge steel girders and trusses have been made necessary because of the total lack of supporting pillars in its interior, this part all being open for the parking and handling of the big T.C.A. mail and passenger planes which will berth there.

An oil well is going down about one mile west of Wilson Siding. Imperial Oil is reported as interested in the test well being put down on the structure. Geologists estimate the depth at 3,000 feet, which will not take very long with a Rotary rig such as is being installed there.
